

Towards connected and resilient urban areas:

Vision and know-how of French players in mobility and the smart city

Event part of the thematic fortnight of the France pavilion devoted to the topic of the city

Organized in partnership with:

- Comité Richelieu: the innovative SMEs and start-ups French association
- Fer de France: the French players in rail mobility association

Event closing:

Jean-Baptiste Djebbari, Minister for Transport, French Government

Metropolization is a global trend. Resilience and sustainability of urban areas are challenging, while innovation potential is very significant.

- How can we maintain our cities over time and keep them pleasant and safe to live in for their inhabitants?
- How can we ensure a fluid circulation of inhabitants and goods in urban areas?
- How can we reconcile the historical legacy of our infrastructures and the need of sustainability?

A cluster of committed French players will share with you their convictions on these questions addressed to the cities of today and tomorrow, in order to be sustainable cities with resilient, innovative and smart infrastructures.

Come and meet the smart city and new mobility French ecosystem!
